With a tournament-record 21-under four-round total, defending champion David Frost topped former Q-C champions and now runners-up

Payne Stewart and D.A. Weibring by a tournament-record seven shots. In so doing, he became the first back-to-back Quad-Cities winner since Deane Beman won the first two events in 1971 and 1972. Having also won the previous week's Canadian Open, Frost became the first player to successfully defend a title and also win in back-to-back weeks on Tour since Johnny Miller in 1975.
